Product Details :

Optical glass windows refer to a piece of transparent optical material that allows light into an optical instrument. They are pieces of optical glasses with ground and polished faces that are relatively parallel. Optical windows are applied for protecting fragile components inside an equipment, they are adopted to isolate two physical environments while allowing light to pass. It can be used on laser technology, IR detector and imaging technology etc.

When selecting windows, please consider materials, transmission, scattering, parallelism and resistance to certain environments. Shuncheng Optics offers standard and high precision optical glass in round, rectangular, wedge windows and custom shapes. Material could be optical glass, fused silica, sapphire, ZnSe, ZnS and IR crystal.
